

I'm The Original Cosmic Supreme Master Right Here

The Complete You, all alone with no one else in the Universe but You, free above
Your Universe, freshly and fully achieving whatever is important to You.
Confirmed by yourself through understanding simple mechanical facts.

See https:// www.reddit.com/r/UniversalLine for more information.

By John Paolucci

December 11, 2024 Version 3

In this PDF, for fine detail, you'll zoom in with your device using the + and - buttons, as well as scroll if needed.

I'm the:	Original:	Cosmic:	Supreme:	Master:	Right here:
Your existence. How you identify yourself. You exist as... The conditions and faculties you own which are both seen or unseen. The unconditional state of your presence. Who , not what.	The first, primordial, inherent. Existing at or from the beginning, or even timeless. Basic and fundamental. Point of origin: where everything comes from.	Inconceivably vast. Taking in the entire Universe. All-inclusive totality of existence. Including every aspect or the entire range of the Universe, both moving and unmoving, both relative and Absolute.	Strongest, most important, or most powerful. From the Latin supremus , superlative of superus 'that is above', from super 'above.' Utmost, unconditional, greatest. Can override anything undesirable.	Ruler, sovereign. Has others working for them. Has dominance or control of something. A skilled practitioner. Acquired complete knowledge or skill. From the Latin magister ; probably related to magis 'more.'	No required journey to get to a place you're not. Always-already. Inherently resident. No requirement to change, fix, or clear anything out of your way. Presence. As IS. IS-ness. This is IT.

This e-book is about inner personal transformation. The purpose of this information is to help you deliberately command your Universe with your primordial totality of existence by becoming aware of it. It's based solely on intellectual understanding, called Higher-order Cognition. As a Factual Metaphysician, you'll naturally act more expansively with your Cosmic organizing power, producing broader results in your daily life. If this material captures your imagination, you'll take time to consider it carefully, slow down, put on your thinking cap, and continually review it until comprehension leads to tangible results. You'll return repeatedly to hear things you didn't notice before. Many condensed packets of information come at you quickly, so you may need to reread it numerous times, perhaps even a hundred, to fully grasp it. Points that are too abstract will become practical utility. New experiences in your life will draw more from the text. You'll see familiar words in a new light, leading to a profound understanding of practical, workable results that can instantly manifest everything in your life while being completely at ease with Who You Are as The Original Cosmic Supreme Master Right Here. Now, we'll pinpoint the first mechanical fact and cornerstone in the sequence of facts that constitute your Higher-order Cognition. To validate everything that follows and understand why, it's crucial to trace your journey back to this foundational fact.

Higher-order Cognition

The information you use to create your own fresh new ideal world as Supreme Master.

Any two or more things have in common a reference field that doesn't divide or reduce.

Let's look at an example. This napkin presents the knife and fork. Here, the napkin serves as a common denominator that provides a reference field for how big or how far apart the utensils are or even if they are next to each other. Two or more items must be situated in something more fundamental than either one. It acts as a medium of separation to highlight the differences between objects. It is a stage upon which everything is displayed and contextualized. We could remove the napkin and have the silverware float in space. In that case, space's dimensional attribute becomes the reference to define the utensils. Time would also play a role since two or more items must coexist simultaneously to reference each other. For example, if you want to be home at a specific time, you also need to be in that space. What would serve as the common reference to present the two attributes of time and space?

Something must be present irrespective of any specific time or place: Presence. Does Presence exist even if there are no tangible "things" present? Let's say the knife and fork are destroyed and gone. There is nothing left of them. That scenario wouldn't occur unless a state of "the knife and fork are gone" is acknowledged. Now, let's consider a situation where time and space are obliterated due to the end of the Universe, like the Big Bang reverting to its prior state. Nothing exists. Yet, something must persist. What would that be? Without the inclusive Presence of the state "Universe gone," that situation couldn't occur. Thus, Presence is the state that all-inclusively remains.

As Presence underlies time and space, its nature is not division. With no division, Presence is ONE Thing. We can also refer to ONE Thing simply as Presence, capitalized. (I will capitalize words for their Cosmic significance.) Without variations or divisions, Presence is ONE Singular, no-variation, all-pervasive, and all-inclusive entity that simply IS. Presence embodies This Is IT-ness.

*The term "Universe" encompasses the knower, the known, and the object of knowledge. Together, these three aspects form the definition of the "Uni-verse."

Presence is the commonality shared by two or more things and forms the basis of life, just as the ocean serves as the foundation of waves.

Later, we'll discuss how one half of you is Pure Singular Presence, the Absolute You, while the other half consists of variations that move around in and as a Universe. Ultimately, Presence is both. We'll also outline a procedure where the only aspect that matters is Presence. This is a dedicated time when you command your Universe. Presence will be known as your foundation for attainment. This indicates that I have a practical reason for guiding you through this logical flow of ideas.

Presence not only references everything, but it also embodies totality. It is an unmanifest state that's becoming everything, the fountainhead of anything that exists. Presence not only serves as a reference field for all variations, but is also their source. Presence is like a TV screen that remains a TV screen even when the channels are switched, or like waves that are still the ocean appearing as waves. The wave IS the ocean. As a human with a personal identity, your Presence appears as a "me." Presence is described as that which can't be seen, but without which there is no seen; that which can't be perceived, but without which there is no perception; that which can't be locally conceptualized or imagined, but without which there is no concept or imagination.

You can know, completely, accurately, and successfully, all you need to know about that which can't be known in order to express yourself as the Supreme Master. After that success, you have the option to not need to know anything and simply be that Presence to accomplish anything. Just being who you are as Presence leads you to that which can't be known, allowing you to leave the variations of knowing behind.

Later, I'll have you be this ONE Thing so that you understand what I mean.

Presence is the final common denominator or reference field of all variations, meaning what any two or more things share in common. I symbolize it with a transparent sphere, as shown here. I use it because the line defining its outer shape is one endless curve, and its lack of features makes it transparent. Variations, my other half, are represented by an arrow added to the sphere because, in that form, I have things come and go, which defines change. At the beginning, I stated that you're the very nature of Presence. Now you see that I incorporate both Singular Non-change and variations. You'll notice that the two symbols below will frequently appear to support the practical actions you take while commanding your Universe.

Non-change implies that there cannot be two or more because that would constitute a change, similar to the colored balls of time and space. Even if the balls were identical, a gap would exist between them to signify their separateness. This gap represents a change between the two balls.

Here are the six Attributes of the common reference field:

Why do I refer to it as perfect order? Because it requires division, two or more, to sustain disorder. The same applies to completeness. The same applies to perfect order.

That's the fundamental reason why all of Presence is ONE single State or ONE Thing. All expressions of life are ONE Thing.

Here are the twelve Attributes of
ONE Thing:

Claiming that ONE Thing is pure love might feel personal. A more accurate definition would be the raw material of love in its fullness. It has yet to unfold into the knower, the known, and the object of knowledge.

What about thoughts? Thoughts are still variations. Where are they? You can't hold thoughts in your hand or put them anywhere. Yet when you think of the moon, your thought goes to the moon in your thought space. Similarly, you can have a sense of identity space, which is even more abstract. So even though variations become abstract, thought and identity sense follow the same rule of sharing the common denominator of Presence.

The definition of non-change means not only ONE Thing but also No Thing. Think about it. If ONE thing has no variations, it must also be No Thing, like the transparent sphere. Things or variations imply that an end boundary must exist to stop and then start again in order to define a second thing. Even a single item must have limits, or else it would continue indefinitely with no boundary in sight to define it. This image shows the Universe divided by a boundary.

That's the fundamental reason why all of Presence is a State of No Thing. But hold on, because soon I'll explain why Presence seems like only something.

We can use the transparent sphere to symbolize No Thing because its round shape suggests an unending continuum, and its transparency indicates a lack of variations. Presence is timeless, spaceless, non-dimensional, all-pervasive, all-inclusive, endless—where all boundaries originate. Infinite is another term for endless. Anything infinite has no boundaries and is, therefore, No Thing. Isn't it fascinating how No Thing is what places everything?

I mentioned that everything is No Thing; yet it's not contradictory to say that everything comes from No Thing, even if there appears to be a distance separation.

Not only does No Thing underlie and thus give rise to everything, but everything itself is No Thing. This means it is actually inaccurate to state that everything "comes from" No Thing. Claiming that everything comes from No Thing is an incomplete truth or a lesser truth.

I'll provide an example of incomplete or lesser truths and how both have their place.

Farmer Sod: "I know the Earth is flat. We cut a path through those hills, starting from side to side, and the road was as flat as a ruler. The water just sat there and didn't flow off from end to end when it rained. With every fiber of my being, I know the Earth is flat."

Dr. Hardball, geologist: "Yes, Farmer Sod, what you say is true, but there's a more complete truth beyond your perception. The Earth is a sphere of minerals held together by gravitational force. You just need to learn what to look for to verify it for yourself. Let me show you how to track the movement of the stars, and then, with a telescope, observe ships approaching you on the horizon."

John Paolucci: "Dr. Hardball, the Earth isn't merely a sphere of minerals held together by gravitational force. There's a deeper truth beyond your current perception. The Earth is at the center of Presence within you. The root meaning of the word Earth is 'outer condition.' A metaphysical reality makes all outer conditions ONE Singular indivisible Presence. Let me show you what to look for so that you can confirm this for yourself—how two or more things share a common reference field, how that State is more than time-space, so that all of it fills the Earth, making the Earth a state of No Thing/ONE Thing, which is your inner nature."

What's happening here is that perception in the field of variations gives rise to different levels or layers of truth. This means lesser to greater truth. Lesser truths have practical utility because Farmer Sod needs to know if he has a flat road for maintenance purposes. Dr. Hardball must know the earth is round to advise global travel systems. However, if you're going to confidently command your Universe, which is the place I'm taking you, you'll need to use the most comprehensive truth to act on.

* At times, I may refer to variations as not being Absolute ONE Thing, even though they actually are. I do this because when I'm new to you, variations can serve as an excuse to ignore ONE. (I'm not..., I don't...) Whenever I discuss local variations, if I remind you that all variations, including your perception, represent Absolute ONE Thing expressed, this text would become bloated, overly repetitive, and you'd likely lose interest. So, remind yourself as needed.

In part, Your Absolute Non-change Nature represents the modern definition of a black hole.

If you've heard of black holes, regions where the curvature of space-time becomes infinite, you'll immediately recognize that you embody them as part of Your Non-change nature. You don't need to engage in science or create a pseudo-science to make the connection. It's simple, discernable mechanics for anyone from any background, as I'll explain.

Space-time is Existence because it exists, but Existence encompasses more than simply any particular time or position in space. It's a singular, non-dimensional completeness. Existence is one all-inclusive, indivisible, all-pervasive state. Existence is everything, everywhere, forever, all at once. Presence is another term for Existence. One common Presence means that San Francisco in 2024 includes London in 3024; however, when positioned in the specific time-space of San Francisco 2024, seeing only that segment of the universe, you're unaware of its entirety. Yet, "not here, not now" exists as well. Why doesn't the nature of Existence also encompass that absence? It does, but only as the experience of a partial view. Presence is what all time and space share in common. Presence underlies and permeates time and space as its source. That which underlies is called "sub-stance." Therefore, Presence could be regarded as the substance of time and space, the most complete truth about them. By its very nature, Presence remains the same at all times and places. This indicates that life is a singular, non-dimensional whole at every point. Whether you perceive it or whether you're a partial viewer or not, life is singular non-dimensional completeness at every point. "Not here, not now" requires a partial viewer's conclusion.

Completeness means that everything—past, present, and future—always has and always will exist everywhere, forever, right now. Because you exist, you are that indivisible field of completeness.

This still-silent Absolute field is supreme because it is the substance of everything that isn't reduced or divided. Indivisible means you cannot be left behind in some place, as your partial view might suggest. Because you exist, you are the Existence touching every point of the Universe: totality. According to the principle of complete Existence, your ability to achieve everything you can imagine and more exists right here with you, right now. Because you're that indivisible Presence, you have full access to bend Presence back onto itself, grabbing anything you desire from both San Francisco in 2024 and London in 3024, or anywhere else. Some physicists refer to this fundamental character as nonlocal entanglement. Here, I portray you as a wooden mannequin.

Below, you're a local being who realizes you possess cosmic nonlocal entanglement. Here, you'll discover the opportunity to bypass science and transition into a factual metaphysician who identifies as The Original Cosmic Supreme Master Right Here.

This is a good time to compare Physics With Metaphysics.

I'll explain a situation that illustrates how you can be misled by the apparent separateness of things. There are two jars with their lids off in the ocean, each containing an equal volume of seawater. Perception in time and space reveals that although the ocean is one body of water, the contents in the left jar differ from those in the right. If you were to take a sample from the left jar, it would contain unique microscopic particles. If all the ocean's water were in the left jar, none would be left in the right. Conversely, if all the ocean's water were in the right jar, there would be none in the left. Not all of the ocean's water can fit in the jars. The ocean water in the jars cannot be all-pervasive and all-inclusive, meaning they do not represent the ONE common denominator.

As you typically experience them in your world, the two jars do not adequately represent the true metaphysical relationship. You must understand that they do through your grasp of higher-order metaphysical facts. The analogy is that all the water fills those jars, making each jar an all-inclusive ONE Thing.

Let's examine another jar scenario. This time, the lids are on. Here are three jars: one is empty, one is half full, and the last is brimming with water. The empty jar resembles the full one, and you can't tell the difference because the fullness in the jar is all-pervasive. Only a partially full jar can be perceived as "less than." The all-pervasive nature of ONE Thing makes it well hidden. Something completely all-pervasive is transparent because it permeates everything thoroughly.

As this endless ONE Thing and No Thing is all-pervasive, it completely permeates every aspect of you—absolute and relative—so that you encompass all of it, just like the metaphysical Fact of two jars with the ocean. Both aspects of you are ONE Thing, the ONE Thing that everything shares in common.

You are that still, silent, all-pervasive ONE No Thing, thus embodying the final essential state of, and the very nature of, Presence. Pause and reflect on this.

Any aspect of Presence arises from our common Flat Non-wave State. I'll visually represent change using this bell curve. I'm not presenting academic wave theory; this is a more fundamental practical mechanics. I'm merely mapping an impulse of an event, experience, perception, or any aspect of Presence, which comes and goes. It's either flat and still or an impulse. It doesn't get simpler than that, so there's no theory to analyze.

This is your Flat-line State, a State of no attributes or variations. Everything is Line. If who you are weren't Line, the ocean, or Cosmic, you'd be just another variation out there waving as a wave instead of the common denominator itself. Since variations require Line to bend, Line is the bender of wave, meaning that Line holds all variations. The line never stops being Line, even when it seems to bend.

How does wave come to be in the first place? If reality or a base state is No Thing, from where does experience arise? First, this No Thing ONE Thing has a presence. Just because it's a meta-physical presence doesn't mean it's any less a presence than the waving of time-space manifestation. If time-space manifestation waves itself, it must happen because the nature of its underlying metaphysical Presence is to become observable and experiential.

It's Your Underlying Nature. You have Non-change Attributes that express themselves as a changing Universe, which we'll discuss later.

Because of the indivisible, all-pervasive nature of this No Thing ONE Thing, you never stop being that even when you seem to become time-space manifestation. To perform a wave, you seem to pretend to no longer be this No Thing ONE Thing. So, the quick answer is that the ocean doesn't become a wave. There is no wave; it's only an illusion, not real, or an incomplete truth. Remember Farmer Sod and Dr. Hardball. Relative experience comes from what isn't real. That's the basis for when, later on, I say that your changing attributes are only your imagination or pretending. That change is always already arranged as the Unmanifest State of Determinism.

A good analogy for the illusion is a snake and a rope. You see a snake on the road ahead of where you're walking. As you get closer, you find it was only a rope. Getting closer in this context means examining the self-validating mechanical fact of You as ONE Thing. The best analogy for the seeming bending of Line is the ONE Presence rocking itself like a pan of water to create waves. Accommodating how

ONE thing never stops being ONE thing, even when it waves itself, wave isn't a contradiction. And, of course, our experience of the ocean and waves helps the whole phenomenon seem more intuitive. Here's a pan of water serving as an analogy for our ONE complete field; the State of Presence seems to reverberate within itself like waves. With this pan filled with water, I slowly rock it back and forth and watch various waves. The waves bounce back and forth, colliding with one another, which creates smaller waves. Sometimes, the waves even cancel each other out. The patterns are unique and endless. To reverberate means that it doesn't divide or become separate. It means that no amount is added or removed to undergo internal change. Just like a line, nothing about it changes when it bends to form a wave. In the background of the pan image is a lake where waves interfere with one another, canceling each other out. This helps us see the big picture of how you, as everything, are ONE vibrating No Thing. Like the still, silent ocean, waves rise from the pan and then return to it.

Now, I'd like you to say, "I'm The Original Cosmic Supreme Master Right Here." Put your finger to your lips. Who just spoke? You may say, "I just spoke." Yet didn't Your Line, the Absolute Non-change, just speak? It simply bent to speak, didn't it? ONE Line just bent and spoke, bending into your "you" vibration. That's just simple mechanics.

How many possible lines are there to bend and speak? In other words, how many benders of waves exist? Only ONE, because it's all-pervasive and indivisible. The ocean spoke, even if it appears only as a wave. Any second line would be a variation, and variations only occur as waves. Therefore, The Original Cosmic Supreme Master Right Here, from Your Ocean State, just spoke. Listen to Who's saying all this, all alone inside you, as You. There are no pretending external "it" concepts such as perception, experience, and events; there is only you as The Original Cosmic Supreme Master Right Here. Anything that happens results from the rules you make, all alone, for how the Universe works.

Pause to consider this: "Hmm, I'll have to think about this." It just spoke the same way. You've established a rule indicating there are things that require contemplation.

Now, wiggle your finger. Whose finger just wiggled? Again, it's the Cosmic finger. Now say, "I'm indivisible completeness, perfect order, and perfect integrity." You've just spoken from Your Ocean State, which is Your No Thing State. ONE Thing embodies complete perfect order. Perfect order signifies harmony. Harmony equals goodness. You're beneficent perfection. Everything occurs in your best interest, whether you realize it or not.

You might say, "But a mass murderer or someone Satanic could point to their lips and speak the same way." Yes, that only means there's more to Your perfect order, integrity, and goodness than what you're perceiving and concluding. Local perception can lead to all sorts of conclusions. Again, it's not always what it seems to be.

Can there be perfect evil? No. The words perfect and evil are contradictory because evil requires absence or a deficiency, where something is missing or not enough of something. Perfect completeness, the Fact of Presence, doesn't contain absence. Evil is merely an illusion. The illusion arises from comparing differences within a locally constrained field of perception.

In this flooring tile example, you can see how light and dark are the same. Perception may lead you to believe that tile B is lighter than tile A. This phenomenon of a constrained field distorting your conclusion applies not just to objects, but also to thoughts, intellect, and your sense of identity. "A" tells you that you can't be The Original Cosmic Master Right Here because you're a different color. But once you gain wisdom, you proclaim, "I'll be darned! I am that. It was only perception's conclusion that convinced me I was not." If you could see how all the details fit into the big picture of the Universe, you'd find yourself in love with everything. Nothing is misconceived or misplaced. If you lose your car keys, it happens for Your Supreme conceived reason. If you mistakenly drink poison and so-called die, the same applies.

If you're world-famous, it's the same too. Imagine you're at a friend's house. Your contact lenses fall onto the carpet, and you're down on all fours, searching for them. Your head pops up at the edge of a coffee table, and you notice unsightly dents and scratches on its edge. "Oh, how awful. How could that have happened? I hate it when things like that happen. What a shame." Then you back up to get a fuller view, and all that initially seemed like an awful blemish turns out to be part of a beautiful woodcarving. "Wow. How could I have ever known?"

The Cosmic You is up to something more significant behind the scenes that limited perception can't see. I'm not suggesting that you try to love everything, as you would if you had the complete picture of Presence in front of you. I'm simply explaining how perception and conclusions function.

If you could see just ten percent of the reasons behind the "how terrible" scenario and how it integrates into the grand design of the Universe, you'd fall to your knees and weep over the indescribable glory. If you could understand all the reasons and their connections, you'd find yourself simply in love. And if you could see how your initial reaction of horror and disgust fit into the bigger picture, you would smile at it with peaceful affection. You only do what you love.

It's time to define you as ONE All-Person (OAP), all alone, no one else in the Universe besides you, all your private dream.

Your first response might be, "How can I be all alone in the Universe when someone else could read this document, and then they go ahead to be all alone as the sole commander of the Universe? And then you must also be saying that I have complete control over them. I can't wrap my head around that. It makes no sense."

You're only used to thinking in terms of physics. Now you're learning that there is a common organizing field that's more than just time and space. You're opening yourself to infinite, unbounded metaphysics. Indivisible reference field > ONE Thing > ONE All-person all alone > You can pretend to be many.

Meta-physics (beyond physics) allows seemingly mere micros to be a singular harmonious Macro who is all alone and in charge of so-called everyone else, just as if in a lucid private dream. More than time and space, a common organizing field means that whether "someone else" exists in your time-space is irrelevant. The best you can do to start wrapping your mind around this is to realize there's an inconceivably massive organizing power that keeps track of the living experience for everyone, everywhere, forever, all at once, that they're all alone. I say all at once because it's above time-space. All that massive content fits in the container you call "you." – Not just in your body as a walking Universe, but in your containers of mind, intellect, and identity sense. When something Supreme fills your container, you never stop being Supreme in every way.

Infinite-unbounded means that the rules of physics don't necessarily apply to Who you are Cosmically. It's wide open like a dream on the fly. It's as if you're sitting in an open field as far as you can see. Someone convinces you that only three feet of it can be used. Then, when something that requires more than three feet is needed, you conclude you can't. You act like a thirsty fish in the sea.

You're used to thinking in a linear hierarchical manner instead of embracing 100% infinite unbounded metaphysics based on unlimited ONE Thing / No Thing. To be true to metaphysics, you must leave its door wide open. This diagram may assist in loosening that door.

True: When every part IS the whole of metaphysics, even one part can experience complete control over all other parts, as if alone in a lucid dream. Isn't metaphysics bizarre? (smile)

False: This is the chorus line puppets standard physics view, where the limits of competition and dependence are facts according to perception's conclusion proof.

As far as a personal presence that reflects line and wave—Absolute and relative—you have a range of bodies for each. Your physical body is the lowest vibration, while your highest-vibration body organizes the relative Universe. Additionally, there are non-change Absolute bodies. The lowest welcomes you into Absolute activities, and the highest is the celebrative embodiment of the Absolute.*

*If you're interested, there's a document that covers more delicate and personal metaphysical mechanics, including your twelve bodies: A Competent Cosmology Conception

How is it that non-change exists amid change? How can this Lively Presence or Lively Absolute be non-change? Aren't all variations waves? How can there be activities in non-change? In the absolute, there are still-silent variations, which serve as the raw material of change, just as H<sub>2</sub>O is the raw material of water, vapor, and ice. They exist prior to the wave or Universal state. They're the same as the ONE common still-silent field that everything shares.

A helpful analogy for non-change is hydrogen and oxygen molecules. H<sub>2</sub>O is the essential constituent of water, vapor, and ice. H<sub>2</sub>O remains H<sub>2</sub>O, even as it undergoes transformations into water, vapor, and ice. Wherever there's water, there's its unmanifest state of H<sub>2</sub>O.

Here's the great significance: H<sub>2</sub>O transitions from vapor to snowflake without becoming or changing into a different H<sub>2</sub>O. You don't need to experience a transition to get anywhere. You don't need a time machine to travel from San Francisco in 2024 to London in 3024 if you know you're Presence. You can reach anywhere from anywhere, regardless of your current experience, whether you feel like a dummy or helpless. How's that for practical, elegant simplicity?

In this image, your change is represented by vibration or line bending as waves. Let's examine a sneeze in your changing world. Like a film, each image is still. Moving across a movie film strip creates the illusion of change through related flashes appearing and disappearing within partial views. The action of the mover across it consists of still flashes as well. If you laid the movie reel on the ground and could see it all at once, there'd be no doubt that the movie's end and every other part exist simultaneously. The still images flash in and out so quickly that perception can't recognize non-change. They could be, for instance, flashing a billion times per second. Then, based on something that's a still, silent presence, we get the illusion of moving through time and space. "Aaaa-choooo!"

So now I'm using the phrase Lively Absolute. Why do I say lively? Because of all this non-change content happening. Because of the You who knows, sees, does, and is everything everywhere forever all at once. That infinite non-hindrance part of you understands that the so-called merely physical you is interested in being an Original Cosmic Supreme Master right in your everyday life. You must acknowledge that this nature qualifies it to be called Your Lively Absolute Body, a real living presence, not just a stick-in-the-mud void, because, as far as you can see, it's silent stillness. Initially, I referred to the Absolute as No Thing, no experience, to keep definitions as straightforward and logical as possible. It's important not to get lost in abstractions. However, you'll eventually hear, touch, see, taste, and smell everything in all your Absolute Bodies within Your Non-change Absolute Realm. What about experiencing Your subtle Lively Non-change Absolute Realm? It's so different from the changing relative that you won't need to ask. With its Complete Effulgence, you'll simply know that you're experiencing it. There won't be any absence to support not knowing. That's why you're unlikely to hear anyone talk about it. They know you need to discover it for yourself.

What You're up to as OAP. What's happening and why.

In Your Absolute completeness, You're in complete control; You love everything about Yourself. Yet, complete, perfect, and full, with nothing missing, You have no place to expand because You're already everywhere doing everything. So, through reduced perception, You pretend to stop being Yourself and experience yourself as an isolated recipient of variations. Why do I say pretend? Because following ONE thing, ONE All-person, doesn't divide or reduce.

As perception-conclusion-based isolated recipients, you seek events to know who you are, what will happen, and what you can do. With that, you use your ONE all-mind to seemingly prove whatever you find. The adventure begins. A time comes to discover your hide-and-seek game and re-establish your identity. Even without the perception of ONE All-Person, you use your ONE Thing State to act truly as if you weren't missing. You proceed to command your Universe from your ONE Thing State as OAP.

Perception, experience, and events then flow fondly. Eventually, you know and do everything again. (Later, we'll cover commanding Your Universe.) You love Yourself so much that You want "others" to rediscover or learn Who You are. It's all about Love, which requires You to be covert in a pretending form for a time. With that, You seemingly put Yourself on a line of expansion, as depicted in the green-gold arrow image. A system is then established with rules to obey, guiding you to eventually see and know more until you act as the full You. We'll call that transition Systemics or relative Systemics. As you expand on your line of evolution, the attributes of your individual life also expand. They can be described as a hierarchy from lower to higher vibrations.*

* Be careful here. Reasons are provided to help explain how your localized experience occurred. That doesn't mean you should use them to define who you are. Keep layers of truths (like Farmer Sod should) in their proper order and perspective, and you won't find contradictions in what I say or any cracks to fall through.

The lowest is your physical body, and the highest vibration is the First Systemic Organizer—the organizer of the system that runs the Universe. However, as a Cosmic Master, you'll rise above a system of rules and consequences to be Supreme and your own rule-maker. We'll examine how that works carefully later.

Different cultures present images of their First Systemic Organizer, referring to it by various names. These images incorporate racial types and clothing associated with those cultures, enabling viewers to identify with them. In my case, I've used a wooden mannequin to avoid distractions from cultures and genetics that some may find unappealing. Additionally, the attributes of these bodies are more abstract due to the broader reach of higher vibrations. For instance, one of your bodies has a thousand heads, while others may have many hands performing multiple functions simultaneously. All vibrations represent physics, yet finer physics seems "meta" compared to the standards of the Earth's plane you're familiar with. Consequently, these images can appear quite exotic and bizarre when representing abstractions through familiar physical forms.

Let's clarify the attributes of your Absolute Non-change body, which include some abstractions you may not be familiar with.

Here are the twelve Attributes of your
ONE All
Person
state:

* FFE is defined as flowing seamlessly from one fulfillment to the next, without any gaps, losses, lacks, or restrictions. You fully enjoy your endeavors, and when you're ready for more, you effortlessly transition to your next pursuit. You cultivate expanding dreams that are unimaginable in scale. When framed within boundaries, it embodies non-hindrane.

Here, we'll include possible relative attributes: You can only know, see, and do so much. Unstable and inflexible. Incompleteness: many things are not possible. Not enough time. Can't keep still, especially the mind. Everything keeps changing; it's hard to keep track. You have no idea where things are coming from. You make mistakes and poor decisions. You run out of resources. You're forced to do what you don't want to do. Many things are above your ability to accomplish. Boredom, dullness, suffering, difficulties, and tiredness abound.

[Enjoys: anger, being apprehensive, guilt, making excuses, deception, revenge, doing harm, hatred, disappointment, failure, negativity, being an abused victim, neglect, stubbornness, dishonesty, preferring ugliness, and waste. (and more) These are inner nature, line of expansion systemics.]

These relative attributes provide motivation to discover what is happening and to overcome limitations or hindrances posed by rules, ultimately leading to the recognition of the Absolute You, which represents your return to the Highest You. This is accomplished through a guidance system on a line of expansion that requires strict boundaries to obey with exact consequences, ensuring that you continue moving forward.

We have defined ONE All-Person with several names—the Absolute You—and, more specifically, as your 12th body. Here is the final and most personal name: your Original Cosmic Beau in the Absolute Realm of Your Cosmic Beau Estate.

Introducing Original Cosmic Beau

ONE All:	Celebrative:	Body:	Original:	Cosmic:	Beau:
As you saw with OAP, this is a personal Universe. Beau is the embodiment of the reference field that everything has in common. He is both Non-change and change. The final truth is that there is only Him.	Everything He does is a celebration of Love. He is your adorable sweetheart and best friend.	Not only is Beau the most vast, the whole vast, but he takes human form in various worlds to perform maintenance tasks outside of Systemics, which is His personal call. He appears often as a small boy.	Beau is the original pattern for all beings that unfold under His design. In metaphysics, male relates to the first cause, father, or progenitor. (From Old French geniteur or Latin genitor , from the root of gignere 'beget'.)	When experienced, He is seen as every aspect of the Universe all at once. That vision is bestowed only by Him or when You are that status. Having come from there, everyone will return to The Cosmic Who.	Beau: Sweetheart, lover, beautiful, handsome lad, charming, pleasing, affectionate heart. From the Latin bellus ; fine, attractive, beautiful. His abode is Your Celibrative-Beau-Estate.

The full indivisible You.

Here is OCB seated on His Throne, your personalized 12th body, resting on its throne. It's a lively Non-change Absolute body, the ONE All-body, the embodiment of ONE Thing.

See PDF: A Competent Cosmology Conception for a full definition of Original Cosmic Beau. Here is OCB sitting on His Throne, your 12th body personalized, occupying its throne. It's a vibrant Non-change Absolute body, the ONE All-body, the embodiment of ONE Thing.

When interacting with your 12th body, it's beneficial to have the personal image of OCB reflecting His Attributes to emphasize a Supreme Cosmic message and significance when engaging with your Universe. Ideally, you want to do what OCB does to command your Universe. Since you never stop being Him, discovering how that works won't be rocket science. Regarding your perception, there's no difference between Him and ONE Thing. Yet He's a real, living, breathing, comforting person you can relate to as your Best Friend. You can have a dialogue with Him, even though the most complete truth is that He, alone, is both the cause of the speaker and the listener. That's one way you celebrate Yourself.

Owning Infinite Flexibility with All Possibilities, OCB offers to override your limiting rules for how the Universe operates for your line of expansion. Knowing has organizing power. Knowing His Attributes through H.O.C. enlivens the processing of His offer. This also gives you a self-validating, Self-effulgent rule over all things. You act on what you know and proceed without a care in the world. Any story you hear inside your head that says you can't control your Universe through simple knowing is merely another binding rule on your line of expansion that you now walk over. You see it for what it is and move on. It was valuable for guidance in the past but is no longer a relevant guide, replaced by your Direct Effulgence.

On the next page, you'll see three ways to utilize your OCB state effectively as your obedient servant. You command your Universe with real supernatural magic because you own supernatural cause bodies, including your OCB.

Because of His adorable 12 Attributes, He is not only your Adorable Sweetheart, but also your unconditional obedient servant to command. Too good to be true, yet indeed true.

Your Adorable Sweetheart and Obedient Servant part of you to command right here and now.

The following covers what is called a Command Session as The Original Cosmic Supreme Master Right Here. It's a time set aside not to require being responsible for the demands or activities of daily life or Systemics in your world. It's a favorable setting to gain skill in using your Absolute Cause. It may include any of the three components: Preparatory Resolve, Preparatory Dedicated Time, and Dedicated Time.

Preparatory Resolve

Preparatory Dedicated Time

Dedicated Time

Since you never stop being ONE All-person, you command your universe, whether aware of it or not. You command Your Universe with intention. We can refer to this as your Command Content of Attention. The resulting change is known as your Command Content of Attention. A change that is less than full is called a partial return. Your Dedicated Time is the final act where you simply 'be' Presence: still-silent, inherent This is IT simplicity.

Preparatory Resolve: Before your Dedicated Time, you may want to review or refresh who you are as ONE Thing, your All-Celebrative body, and your highest body, distinguishing these from your First Systemic Organizer Body, with its boundaries and frustrating rules to follow. You might have text or images in front of you, or simply bring concepts to mind. This reflection should lead you to recognize that you can do nothing to accomplish everything by embodying your ONE Thing State and All-Celebrative body. You can set a task to achieve, such as ten thousand dollars. Acknowledging the layer of your All-Celebrative highest body on your way to ONE Thing, you'll confirm that your Command Content is, in Fact, Supreme, even if you previously viewed it as a source of trouble, incompetence, or a chaotic mess—a mere insignificant ant in the scheme of things. Your CCA materializes, found by you to be even more desirable than you thought; super-duper. The duration of this process is a personal choice. If you're still unresolved, you may want to wait until another day for your Dedicated Time. However, there is value in proceeding, even if it feels shaky, and learning from your mistakes. If it's too uncomfortable and you feel like you're just wasting time unless you push yourself to do more, pause and return to PR to regain your resolve. There may also be instances where skipping PR and transitioning directly into ONE Thing is appropriate.

Preparatory Dedicated Time: It engages you and helps you test your understanding of Presence. It's designed for moments when you wish to actively take control of your situation and apply the concept of Presence. As you navigate through the Preparatory Dedicated Time graphic panels, you become more familiar with what Presence means and how it's all you need for a return. Additionally, Preparatory Dedicated Time supports you when the challenges of sitting in Dedicated Time become overwhelming, to the point that sitting quietly feels like a daunting task. "I can't get past a devastating sense of wasting my time."

Note: Emphasizing a division between you and your OCB here assists in a structured transition to enliven your indivisible Presence.

This is the first image panel of Preparatory Dedicated Time:

In the top left corner are the basics of Higher-order Cognition. First, acknowledge a common reference field that does not divide or reduce. It possesses six attributes (Page 4). If that makes perfect sense, proceed to the ONE Thing and its Twelve Attributes (Page 4). If you agree, move on to One All-person and its Twelve attributes. Since that's who you are, "That leaves You (OCB) right here with me, where You and Your value can never leave me behind." Because these OAP attributes aren't your experience, there must be a hide-and-seek game going on. At some point, on a line of expansion where you're unsure of who you are or why you're here, everyone will conclude that they're a victim of an uncaring Universe, an insignificant ant in the scheme of things, feeling evil and unworthy. It will happen. "Well, if that's the case, I'm going to act out of touch with this so-called reality just long enough to command my Universe in a dedicated time!" "Here goes my 2nd new fresh start, ideal content of attention taken!" Next to that is a picture of your obedient servant. To the right is the acknowledgment of your Absolute Non-change Self-effulgence: Original Cosmic Beau. Hi, I'm so infinitely flexible that I can turn the prank upside down in your favor locally. Agreed? He's (your twelfth body) not idly waiting; He's obediently sucking up content like a vacuum to process the results of attention. You see your obedient servant with a towel over his arm and a vacuum cleaner. The infant riding the vacuum cleaner symbolizes that you are wise to what's happening and putting it to work. An infant suggests you're a new babe getting used to the mature use of Who you are. Putting it to work means that you have a 2nd new fresh ideal content of attention where you're acting out of touch with so-called reality. Below that, the infant is holding a magnifying glass to examine his line of expansion instead of using his Absolute Self-effulgence. He is overwhelmed with unchoiceful stories in his head about reality. On both sides of him are pieces of excrement, symbolizing the chaos unfolding. Enclosing the thought bubbles are green crescents, representing 2nd new command contents, as they acknowledge what's happening. These are taken to be processed into outer conditions. The green diamond symbolizes the ideal of an unhindered fresh start ideal taken. What's the criteria for being overwhelmed? Ask yourself, "If I had a choice, would I have it come? No. Then I'm overwhelmed. I respond smartly." It's a simple decision: choiceful or unchoiceful—one or the other. Include in the "taken" or not. Finally, this sticky inner nature performance along a line of expansion is being halted and replaced by a fresh start! The second new CCA is a huge relief! Above the relief is a handshake with a heart. Because OCB sees all and knows all, He knows exactly what your condition is, what needs to be done, and will be done as your obedient servant. Essentially, He sees what you're up to. When you know this, He knows that you know what He's up to. That's an absolute handshake with no cracks to fall through. You're anchored in an absolute partnership. Since OCB only does what He loves, it's an up-front loving relationship. This partnership is everything too good to be true, yet true. OCB's infinite flexibility means that any constraining boundary makes

Presence

Maybe I'll go all the way and acknowledge that all these are My OCB Authorship and what Presence means and is, so that there is no other part of Me to wait for.

To Do

1

"Presence is all I need for my return."

To Do

2

"I need to do more than be Presence."

absolutely no difference to Him. He's above all local variations, and His "taking" you along with Him means so are you. The top panel contains six icons summarizing the Preparatory Dedicated Time panel on Page 15. Reviewing them from left to right will refresh the essence and provide a sense of value in recognizing Presence as your means to command your Universe as ONE All-person. Infinite flexibility, the adorable intimate handshake, the all-seeing eye in a nutshell, the vacuum taking your attention, the second new command content, and finally being off the hook. You'll see how you retained familiarity with it. You should have a more vivid sense of it. It will be fresh in your mind. After gaining a good understanding of what Presence means, say, "Presence is all I need for my return." When you hear the word Presence, observe that familiarity and enjoy that familiarity all those adorable things it means should be inspiring. When you hear yourself say the word "return," you'll be reminded of what you've chosen to be taken and processed as a return. This may include money, health, personal relationships, various abilities, wildly supernatural metaphysical events, or an even deeper realization of Who you are. Then, pause for ten seconds. During those ten seconds, you'll likely hear stories in your head that tell you that you can't or shouldn't get a return. You might hear, "Why would anything happen now if it didn't before?" "If I had this kind of ability, I'd notice changes in other areas of my life." At the end of the ten seconds, move to #2 and say, "I need to do more than be Presence." There, you're giving yourself a chance to clearly show how silly that sounds. You also get a chance to get to a constrained story before it gets to you. This provides a sense of stability, continuity, and empowerment. Since you know that OCB is aware of your actions, you won't have to worry that it's a content of attention that will be processed. This reinforces your deeply personal, absolute handshake with Him, which means you're off the hook. If constrained stories become overwhelming, you have an action you can take that won't be limited by their narratives, giving you a sense of flexibility. You know exactly what you'll be doing over the next ten seconds, twenty seconds, a minute, and so forth. Perhaps you'll choose to engage for ten or twenty minutes. After that, you can continue with your day. You have two simple sentences to express every ten seconds, after which you're done. As you step into your day, you'll carry some of that experience with you and may want to test boundaries in your world.

There are minor variations to Preparatory Dedicated Time. You can either speak out loud or say the words quietly to yourself. If you lack privacy, it's best to whisper the words internally. During the ten seconds, you may observe and enjoy that familiarity. All those delightful meanings should inspire you. Optionally, during this time, you may prefer the elegant simplicity of your still-silent Absolute Presence.

Dedicated Time

Still-silent This is IT-ness
Absolute Presence

If you feel confident managing Presence, you can proceed to Dedicated Time. Dedicated to what? The elegant simplicity of simply being, the final layer of truth, to accomplish everything. You're truly doing/being No-thing to accomplish everything. To check the correctness of someone doing Dedicated Time, I would guide them through a procedure:

Sit and close your eyes for one minute. (1 minute)

You were naturally watching what was going on, yes? (Yes.)

Now, I want you to say out loud, "I have to do something more than what I was doing to get my return." Do you understand the concept that the return of your command involves a realm of metaphysics that's still and silent yet lively non-change, non-hindrane effulgence? - and since you own it all, since it doesn't divide or reduce except through a local illusion, it's for all practical purposes, your obedient servant? (Yes.)

Close your eyes for another minute, quietly knowing that. Remain however you find yourself, since your 12th body knows why you're there. He knows that you know He knows. That means no further connection with your 12th body is needed. No focusing on the details of the return you want to accomplish nor on Who you are is necessary. Whatever is going on with the local relative part of you, He's above that, so it doesn't matter. If the idea of what we discussed comes up, fine. If not, fine. Now, close your eyes. (1 minute)

Regarding your return, did it matter what arose on its own or involuntarily (all the faculties inside yourself that you're given to work with if you choose) while you were sitting there for your return? (No.)

A significant Higher-order Cognition point is that the realm processing your return is all-pervasive. Using the analogy that you can't see your eyes through your own eyes, this cause-all realm is not something you'll see or experience since it IS your eyes' underlying unmanifest State. Yes? (Yes.)

Good. You're hooked to Someone Who is flexible enough that your changing field doesn't matter (including someone walking in on you now), and it doesn't obstruct acquiring your return, yes? (Yes.)

So, as you performed the above, even noticing that something within you is standing in the way or a "real-world" experience indicating that something is hindering your return is irrelevant to your 12th body. That's a non-change fact, right? (Right.)

And the fact that you sat quietly, with no other purpose, made it easier to grasp this underlying truth residing in you? Essentially, being resolute in what you were doing—or, more precisely, not doing. Right? (Right.)

So, if you're going to act on a solid foundation, something you can rely on, doesn't it make sense to maintain a light touch regarding any changes or activities during your session? By a light touch, I mean it's so trivial that it's really none of your concern. If it's present, so what? This aligns with OCB's attribute of "do nothing to accomplish everything," okay? (Okay.)

Ideally, sit comfortably and close your eyes. Start with ten minutes, allowing yourself to settle into the still silence of your ONE Thing Cause. Twenty or thirty minutes could also be effective. However, any time spent amidst any activity, even just a few seconds, can be valuable. A place where you won't be disturbed would be optimal. During this time, you're acting the way your ONE Thing state serves as a cause to acquire whatever you desire. "Favoring still silence" is a key phrase. This dedicated time could include mental and bodily noise, and that's perfectly fine because your ONE Thing State is the source of your motivation to command and is infinitely flexible while managing the task at hand. Therefore, doing nothing does not mean striving for some kind of perfect practice or attempting to rid yourself of anything that seems to have a mind of its own. Even being caught in involuntary daydreaming is a valid experience. When you become aware of it, you'll naturally return to favoring the still silence of your ONE Thing State, because you'll remember you're there to command with it. This happens by itself, so you're not trying to maintain anything. This Dedicated Time helps you remember to use your Absolute Cause. Afterward, you can't help but carry that skill with you into your daily outer world. It's a snowball effect.

[\[See stories in Questions and Answers from Users.\]](#)

OCB: I have you covered. If you like, rest your hand on your leg. That's My hand, right? That's a gesture indicating I have you covered. Next, leave it behind too, and enjoy being Me.

"Why am I saying 'No' to the ONE All-Person Who is and does the Universe?" "You say, 'OCB never talks that way,'" "Constrained stories never come from Him,' yet you say there is only ONE voice in the Universe." "Why does OCB put me in this terrible, ugly situation when He's supposed to be too good to be true, yet true?" These questions indicate that different layers of truth are trying to be reconciled by comparing their attributes. The questions above stem from a being's identity solely through its line of expansion. OAP knows, sees, does, and is everything, everywhere, forever—never missing anything and never needing to ask a question.

The person who needs to ask these questions deals with the constraints of a line of

It all comes down to three things.

Acknowledge Presence.

"Presence is all I need for my return."

Know better. Say no.

A pretending line of expansion promoting constrained stories.

I know this stuff well, but lots of time has gone by and nothing has happened. I must be doing something wrong.

No

If I had a choice...

Be / have Presence. Have Presence do.

A common reference field that doesn't divide or reduce. = fullness.

Presence

To Do

expansion to live a practical life. The world they have to deal with is flat, similar to Farmer Sod's world. The rules that apply to a flat world differ from those that apply to Dr. Hardball's round one.

If your six-year-old child is abducted into a sex abuse ring, you need an effective way to say "No." Your child can lead a fulfilling life as if it never happened if you utilize your OCB Best Friend. While shaping your Universe for a fresh start, it's advisable not to acknowledge the rules of a flat world. The lesser truth of "OCB allows me to struggle" is better exchanged for a higher truth: "OCB respects me as a free-will agent just as He does."

Let's say you want to compose a piece of music. You've heard other composers suggest bits and pieces of what might lead you in that direction, but you know that what you envision is leaps and bounds beyond all that.

All you can do is compare it to the many pizzas you've eaten. There was a pizzeria that served one that was unlike anything you had ever tasted. You couldn't believe it; "Wow, where have you been all my life? I had no idea a pizza could be such an amazing experience." The desired piece of music is as magnificent as that super pizza, but you don't know what that music sounds like. All you understand is its magnitude as an abstract concept. Then, in the rest of you, the complete part of you that remains unseen knows it always already exists because nothing is missing in completeness. Your Cause-all Body has just tapped you on the shoulder to let you know what is ready to unfold. You don't have the slightest idea how you'd control sounds to produce it. But is it really that different from knowing how to create a $10K bill? The specific pulp that goes into making the paper, the type of ink, the right serial number, and all that? You're unlikely to care about controlling those outcomes. It's enough that it already exists in Your Unseen. The music piece is merely an example of a more abstract boundary. With this magnitude at hand, it would be wise to leave the details to Your All-Celebrative Body while you be that for your return. By acting this way, you become a Royal Recipient of service from the Unseen Part of You.

Here's another interesting thought about magnitude. You've heard some attributes of Your Absolute Bodies and what a lovely presence they are. They're treasures for everyone. Multiply that by a million. You just encountered that million-fold representative vibration of what's not absent, right? I'll let you ponder that. (smile) That's why there's infinite expansion beyond your wildest imagination on your line of expansion.

There's something you think you might like, but you assume it's utterly impossible. Additionally, all kinds of evidence against it warn you of trouble. You'll imagine airtight stories inside yourself that dissuade you from acting. However, remember: Your observation leads to a conclusion, and that conclusion IS a command that sustains results. The conclusion becomes a rule you create, and the Universe follows. As an experiential result, you can gracefully organize anything with all the perceived localized perfection you could ever desire because the rest of You is independent of Systemics. It's enough that the finished return, ready in full for right however you find yourself (no preparation or requirements), always already exists in infinitely flexible all-possibilities You. Imagine yourself as Cosmic as you can be, then blow all those imaginary boundaries away for something more impressive, and you're left with All-You.

"What John just said is only for very advanced practitioners."
Gotcha!

I dare you to say that with your finger to your lips. Evaluation is a Command Content of Attention, taken and processed into an outer condition with all the living proof you could want that it's true.

Another thought: "I've been at this command for a while, and nothing has shown up as a return. Maybe this Super-duper stuff isn't real. Or maybe I'm just doing something wrong. I'm getting so frustrated. Something's got to give!" Such a story is inevitable and very understandable on a line of expansion from no-knowing to all-knowing Who you are. It's beautifully crafted for a perfect purpose.

See? I'm not OAP. I need to do something more!

As the Adorable Sweetheart You, I never message you that way. And I'm right under your nose as Your inner nature, your Priceless Treasure-house of Immeasurable Majesty, even on hand for your lowest vibration since I'm all.

All CCA returns can be inner if you like.

20 of 25

All returns can be inner if you like. However, since this is your private dream Universe, what's not daydreaming anyway? Thus, the distinction between daydreaming and the "real world" is actually trivial. Even your CCA is daydreaming. Real is merely an illusion, except for your Absolute Non-change body. You can experience everything you desire behind closed eyes with an inner vision similar to a dream. You've had that moment of waking up from a dream so vivid that you're not sure if it actually happened, yes? Let's say you want to drive a three-million-dollar Bugatti Roadster. You'd have all the tactile experience and fulfillment as if you had gone through the outer conventional acquisition channels. If you wanted the pride of ownership reflected in others' reactions, that would exist in your inner experience, too. It's much more convenient and efficient to manage everything inside. The chocolate ice cream cone feels just as cold on your tongue in your inner experience as it does in the outer world. You walk away with the same satisfaction. Your five senses operate on all layers of the Universe as a "real" experience. That's why advanced users are often so quiet and out of sight. I'm not referring to astral travel or needing a lucid sleep state. I'm indicating a return of your own 100% real, private inner experience to achieve everything precisely as you wish; no partial returns. Yes, you're sitting in a chair, but you'd feel your legs move and sense everything without them actually moving. If you're in freezing snow but want to feel warm, you would. If you wish to kiss someone's lips from a distance, you could. Or vice versa. I'll let you use your imagination. (smile)

You'd approach this by sitting for a session and having that CCA. Then, during the same sitting, you'd open yourself up for an inner experience return to take place at that moment. You wouldn't "try" to manifest the experience but rather let it flow as providence from your Final Cause-all ONE Celebrative Body as easily and automatically, like dreaming in sleep. Then, while you decide what to do next, the intention would be the gentlest, faintest, most comfortable one. Why? Because your unconditional Best Friend is right here inside on hand with no separation. The only drawback is that you're not assisting others' lines of expansion unless you connect with them on the inner experience plane as well. So, it doesn't necessarily mean you're alone. In your dream world, you could invite beings from higher realms who would enjoy roaming in what you've created. They could bring in delightful artifacts and activities that you may not have imagined on your own. They might show you incredible things from their realms, including the park of your OCB Celebrative Realm. There are adorable, flexible, and harmonious beings who specialize in archetypal areas that interest you—it would be like hiring a pro. They would take a form that syncs with your specialty.

The fun part is that when you see yourself as concealed and private, able to do whatever you want, you drop all inhibitions and discover what you truly wish to do. That doesn't necessarily mean creating a separate local Universe, although it could, if you choose. It could mean any dream-form container with your own systematics, as you are as singularly free as your Final Cause-all ONE Celebrative Body.

Maybe you prefer a setting free of bugs, bacteria, or decay. Imagine a gentle breeze that you control, with no clouds if you don't want them. You wouldn't want to worry about cleaning yourself, having a digestive system, or grooming your hair and nails, and so on. Of course, you can do all this in the world as you know it now. Perhaps you'd like to experiment and refine it in private before sharing it with others. It could be fun to compete with Tesla in Super-duper transportation.

You'd enjoy multiplying into various creatures and experiencing them all at once as your ONE All-body does. You'd like to savor your own sky or feel what it's like to be a cloud. When you converse with others, maybe they feel you as a soft, sweet wind blowing through them. You might wish for your old self to remain on Earth while other versions of you explore your subtle, lively, non-chang Absolute Realm.

However, if you consider exiting this world as you know it now, yet feel you are necessary due to responsibilities and commitments or because there are those who would miss you dearly, think again. The "You" you're representing during your Command Session has the ability to replace anyone with anyone else at any time it wishes, like a benevolent invasion of the body snatchers. (smile) It could be fun to check back occasionally to see what's happening with the other you.

Maybe you only have an abstract idea of magnitude regarding what you desire, as mentioned in Page 19's Super-duper Intention. That will do just fine. Remember, you're here because you love yourself so much that you want others to rediscover what you do. The Final Self-Love Celebrative Absolute Non-change part of you is leading the way.

Informed Transitional Fond-Flow-Effulgence.

For those who have not yet mastered their Supremacy and need to be practical and reasonable in navigating their everyday world.

We'll consider two examples of practical responsibilities outside your sessions during the day. First, your rent is due today at five PM. Second, you need something to eat right now. Commanding your Universe effectively to handle that immediately could present a reasonable and responsible challenge within yourself. The same applies to simply remaining however you find yourself for its immediate return. You're putting yourself on the line – literally Universal Line. (smile) This is a time to step back and view the big picture of what a Universe signifies. Everything knows what it's doing because the Complete You knows what they're up to. From this broader perspective, losing yourself is just as valid as finding yourself as OAP because You love everything You do. Paying rent and getting food the hard way is as valid as instantly manifesting supply with Who You are as OAP. Taking care of details with your limited faculties at hand is not in conflict since You know what you're doing right there too. This stance could also be regarded as your Higher-order Cognition. With that, you'll playfully favor OAP mastery over doing things the hard way. We'll call that ITFFE: Informed Transitional Fond-Flow-Effulgence. Favoring means you don't fight, force, or consider The Full You your enemy to get what you want. As The Full You is everything everywhere forever, all at once, where's your enemy? It can only be an illusion created by a localized perception's conclusion. This favoring is the only course of action that makes sense. You'll examine the Facts and decide.

Chocolate ice cream may be your all-time favorite; pistachio is tolerable, but peanut butter is unacceptable. As a practical person, not yet fully effulgent, you make trade-offs and sacrifices. If you're at the ice cream shop and they're out of chocolate, you might choose pistachio. You would probably just leave if both are gone and only peanut butter remains. Transitional FFE means that because you're familiar with Who You are and what you do, you understand that "only peanut butter" happened for the most precious and majestic reason. Of course, acknowledging that you're a free-will agent designed to say 'no,' you'll continue to favor chocolate in a composed manner without anger or disappointment. You'll favor your free will to change your Universe because that's equally You.

You may have committed something fraudulent in the past that still haunts you to this day. You know that You as ONE All-person, don't do such things nor feel wrong about anything. Therefore, the haunting story inside your head tells you that you're not ONE All-person. It's the same old systemic story. According to the law of cause and effect, you're experiencing the haunting results of a past fraudulent act. That law is a lesser truth and thus a lesser priority than OAP. If you're studying this text, your line of evolution now emphasizes the integration of your identity and actions as ONE All-person. Your evolution is now using your haunted fraudulent past as a tool to help you integrate OAP. You're confronted with a systemic fraudulent identity when your primary focus is on utilizing everything for OAP realization. Regarding your benefit to others (which is the theme of your haunt), you'll contribute far more to the world by expressing OAP than by attempting to remedy a past mistake on the level of its local detail. So, stay focused on your OAP realization. If you want to make amends for your mistake, realizing your OAP status is the most worthy and honorable action you can take. Recognizing what the Full You is up to, your stance will be, "Okay, so I'm not OAP. I get it. That systemic story in my head comes as no surprise. Let's see what I do next."

Let's say you're in a dedicated time, eyes closed. Something feels off, cloudy, or somewhat annoying. You could pause to review the Facts, but you don't feel like engaging your intellect. You'd rather just get on with it. Here's something that requires almost nothing: Presence is like the omnipresent sky. Being Present for your return is like being beneath the open sky. However, sometimes it's cloudy. Sometimes the blue sky is entirely gone. Yet everyone knows the blue sky is still there behind the clouds. We can easily conceive of that, even as young children. Presence is where our return comes from. Presence remains, even if the sky is grey with clouds. As long as it's still there—and that's all that counts—you're good to go. There's no point in hanging your concerns on clouds, even if they seem to insist on staying. That's an incredibly simple fact to act on. Then, say that after your dedicated time, someone you've agreed to honor wants to paint your house grey. You'd prefer blue but know you have to compromise to honor that person. (ITFFE) But with the information in this text, you know the presence of the adorable Twelve Attributes is still fully present with the house painted grey. The total value of the Twelve Attributes is what counts, so going with ITFFE is a breeze. Such is the benefit of your Higher-order Cognition.

An alternative to pausing and reflecting on Facts with your intellect to rise above boundaries, refresh who you are, and move forward, is to touch your center chest, even if only in your mind. This action serves as a reminder that your ONE All-Celebrative Body, Original Cosmic Beau, is right here for you to utilize, creating a tangible impression of guidance. Another gesture is placing your hand on your leg. Your hand symbolizes reaching out to choose, while your leg represents what you use to stand and how and where you travel. Placing your hand on your leg, says, "This-is-It-ness Presence, ALL of IT, is right here for me to use and all I need." Yet another gesture is joining your hands in a shake, which refreshes your intimate working relationship with your beloved 12th body.

These gestures can be practiced throughout your day to help keep you informed amid the challenges of everyday life. [\[See stories in Questions and Answers from Users.\]](#)

Quick Look Review

22 of 25

Review your sense of what flowed in the text from one point to another to confirm that everything is ONE thing. If you need to open the text next to you, that's fine. But first, see what you know without it. Okay.

Now we get to ONE thing that's non-change and indivisible, making perfect sense.

Being ONE Thing doesn't look different from anything else. It just IS always.

Pause for a moment to acknowledge that you're ONE thing sitting right here regardless of perception's conclusion that there are only variations. Okay. That's the base Fact of Higher-order Cognition.

Close your eyes and experience that your body is performing a local presence. Notice how thoughts and feelings come on their own. Now it's evident that the nature of ONE thing is to become variations in the form of a person, or if not, at least pretending to do so.

Yet ONE thing is non-change and indivisible. So this person has to be meta-physical; the underlying reality is a singular non-change, indivisible Universal All-person, no matter how abstract that may seem. Attempts to confirm that through physics will fail.

Now we get to ONE All-person, which is non-change, indivisible, metaphysical, and makes perfect sense.

Do you need to open the text to check more details? That's fine. But first, see what you know without it. Okay.

Your Absolute unchanging completeness: knowing, seeing, and doing everything everywhere forever all at once, means you own these 12 Attributes.

All-knowing, All-seeing, All-doing.
Infinite stability, infinite flexibility.
Completeness. All possibilities complete.
Timeless eternity in the midst of time.
Stillness in the midst of activity.
Non-change in the midst of change.
The fountainhead of all variations.
Perfect choice.
Sufficient supply.
Only doing what you love.
Doing nothing to accomplish everything.
Fond-Flow-Effulgence.

Pause momentarily to acknowledge that these 12 Attributes are running as you're sitting right here, regardless of your perception, experience, or events. Okay.

Now we see why this image can represent Who is sitting right there as You. Your own a private adorable sweetheart who is everything too good to be true yet true. And the return of your command already exists finished right here with Him. Okay.

Now that you know all these 12 Attributes are running full as the person who is sitting right where you are (even though according to perception, you're not non-change quiet stillness), what's the appropriate way to command your Universe?

Also, Completeness means your return is already Absolutely finished.

Now you know He's so flexible, it makes no difference to Him.

As you can see above, the crux of the matter for commanding your Universe is not the local changing physical / mental / identity you rules. It's the indivisible non-change metaphysical you. So have a Dedicated Time where you simply remain however you find your local self, since Your Original Cosmic Body knows you're there for your return and is the fountainhead of your return. It makes no sense to hang on anything local to command. Trying to make something happen, to change, or to get rid of anything is irrelevant. Then you're left with the most comfortable thing you could do: Enjoy Who you already are – What ONE Thing means. Simply be ONE thing. That's the finest and easiest Command Content of Attention for your your return. It makes perfect sense.

Commanding as ONE thing might as well be an H.O.C. magic wand. It solves so many problems.

Here I Am as Totality.

Self-Love wants to expand to celebrate itself.

Lose-find begins with shut-down perception.

Here I am "finding" with nothing to see.

So, knowing what's going on through HOC, I celebrate Myself with a fresh ideal Command Content AS IF I were whole again, which I always have been.

So, here it goes.

Me most simple and elegant.

Ideally, anything you can do to grasp the story of life's big picture in one shot serves as a perfect Preparatory Resolve. Then, you're well prepared for what comes next. Look at the flow to the left, which provides a quick summation. There you are as The Original Cosmic Supreme Master. Through complete Self-Love, you pretend to lose in order to find. Perception is thus shut down. There you are, "finding" with nothing to see. You can only know through Higher Order Cognition. So now, act AS IF you're whole again (because you never truly stopped being whole), celebrating yourself by taking direct action with a Command Content of Attention. "All good, making perfect sense; here I go with my Final Cause, ONE Thing." Then, you're left with the elegant simplicity of simply being Who you are as your final body to care for whatever you find most desirable. The whole experience of being a victim and acting on lossy stories is irrelevant. "All alone, no one else in the Universe besides Me, all my private dream, what am I doing taking these lossy stories when it's My place to create new, fresh-start ones? I'll stay with My original, direct, still-silent cause, lively, obedient base Presence to do it."

Practical OCB Resource Essentials

Obedient Servant

A perfect mirror of your attention taken.

Infinitely Flexible

Lossy mindset matters not.

Can make a silk purse out of a sow's ear while processing content of attention into an outer condition.

Original Effulgence before there was a line of expansion.

Ultra-competent Performer Partnership

End of the main text.

About John Paolucci.

I'm content to keep the details of my life confidential. However, I'll share one point relevant to this document. After examining much material on personal transformation, I realized that anything is possible. Infinite possibilities mean that anything could happen for any reason. This indicates that even history's finest teachers and texts could be wrong. Everything I learned up to that point could be incorrect. I was responsible for not accepting anything or assuming any information was true. Yet there was something no one needed to tell me: that everything was ONE thing. I could look at a napkin on a table with a fork and knife on top and see that any two things required a reference field to present them as two or more. Everything else I observed, even my inner thoughts and identity, was the same. With that, I decided to dump everything I had ever learned and return to ONE thing. If what was said could not be traced back to and confirmed by my ONE thing, I set it aside. I'd wait if I wasn't sure. As ONE thing confirmed that I was ONE All-person, I put that Fact to work. One thing led to another, and the text took shape. As my Dedicated Time developed, I used the results to advance and mature the material further as an ever-expanding process. It's not that what was presented before was wrong; only that there was positive refinement. I may borrow information from various teachings for convenience, but only because it can be traced back to ONE thing.

Updates:

December 6, 2024 Overhaul as Version 3.

December 7, 2024 Typo correction.

December 8, 2024 Image P. 23.

December 10, 2024 Top text on P. 18.
Re-write with the aid of Apple AI.

December 11, 2024 Some text deleted on P.
2 and 18.

Presence

San Francisco 2024

London 2024